No. I.

TO THE PEOPLE OF VIRGINIA.

FELLOW CITIZENS,

In some parts of our country, dissatisfactions have been excited in the minds of many, with the conduct of Congress at their last session in the passing two laws known by the names of the Alien Law and Sedition Law. It is ever desirable that things should be seen in their true light, and especially those statutes whose constitutionality is seriously drawn in question, by men whose opinions are respected in society. I have lately seen a remonstrance against these laws proposed to the people of Albermarle for their signatures, and addressed to the Senate and House of Representatives, which has every appearance of study and deliberation. It is supposed to have proceeded from the pe n of ——————— and it contains such a representation of the objections to these laws as might alarm and mislead some of the best intended and best affected men among us towards the General Government. The objections ought not to pass unnoticed, and I have waited in the hope that some writer more competent to the task, would have undertaken their refutation. It is for this purpose alone, and not to awaken party spirit or political zeal, that I shall trouble the public with some observations on the Albermarle remonstrance.

Against the Alien Law it is singly objected that the power of sending alien friends out of our territory was never vested in the government of the United States. To maintain the objection the remonstrance particularly recites the powers given to Congress, as enumerated in the eighth section of the first article, and alleges that the law is warranted by none of them, and if warranted by none of them, contends that it is unconstitutional.

It is remarkable that the writer of this elaborate performance, who certainly bestowed much consideration on the subject, never, in his researches in the Constitution, adverted to the fourth section of the fourth article; and this is the more unaccountable, when we are assured that "in all its parts it had been examined."

The fourth section of the fourth article has ordained that "the United States shall "guarantee to every state in the Union, "a republican form of government, and "shall protect each of them against invasion; and on application of the legisla "ture or of the executive (when the legislature cannot be convened) against "domestic virtue" Here the duty of "protecting each state from invasion," is expressly imposed on the United States.— To discharge this duty, the U. State are bound not only to repel invaders after they shall have entered our territory, but to prevent, if possible, an actual invasion.— The means necessary and proper to protect from invasion, whether by repelling or preventing it, are to be decided by Congress. The last clause of the 8th section of the first article has given them the power "to make all laws which shall be "necessary and proper for carrying into "execution the foregoing powers, and all "other powers vested by this constitution "in the government of the United States, "or in any department or officer there"of." In passing this law, then, Congress passed a law that was necessary and proper for carrying into execution the power vested in the United States to protect each of the states from foreign invasion.

It was passed on the 25th day of June last, when the most serious apprehensions were entertained that France, whose decrees and conduct were, and yet are, hostile to the United States, would send an army and invade some part of our country, where it was weakest; perhaps some of the Southern or Western States. Under this impression we find a considerable addition has been made to the army of the United States, and the president was authorized still further to augment it in the event of a declaration of war, or actual invasion, or of imminent danger of such invasion, by calling into service a number of troops not exceeding ten thousand men. At this time there were a great many alien Frenchmen dispersed in various parts of the United States, capable of bearing arms; and some of them were justly suspected to be emissaries and spies for the directory of France, employed to send intelligence of what was passing in our country. The number of these alien Frenchmen exceeded, at the lowest estimate, 20 thousand men, ready to join the French standard, whenever it should be erected on our land.

Would it have been prudent or safe, under these circumstances, to have been without a law that authorized the removal of aliens dangerous to the peace and safety of the United States? ought Congress, who are bound "to protect each state from invasion," to have taken no measures for authorizing the removal of the aliens, whose presence held out the strongest inducement to France to attempt an invasion? in the situation of America will it be said that this law was not a proper one to prevent an invasion? Was not the probability of invasion lessened by depriving France of the assistance which might have been attained and would be expected from alien Frenchmen in the bosom of our country? It was then with the view to protect us from invasion that the law was passed, and wisely passed, which empowered the President to "order such "aliens as he shall judge dangerous to "the peace and safety of the United States "or shall have reasonable grounds to sus"pect are concerned in any treasonable "or secret machinations against the go"vernment thereof to depart out of the "territory of the United States." This my fellow citizens is the law which is confidently pronounced in the Albermarle remonstrance to be unauthorized by our constitution, and which from "a solicitude for the constitution" you are called upon to declare a violation of that sacred instrument. This is the law which you are desired "to censure for unconstitutionality which by no candid interpretation," can be justified; this is the law of which you are called upon to declare in words of the remonstrance, "to the text "then of the constitution we appeal in all "its parts; we have examined it; in none "do we read the delegation of an authori"ty competent to the enaction of either "of those laws." Before you make this declaration I pray you to pause and consider: be not content to read those parts of the constitution only to which the remonstrance refers, but read and consider that section which either by accident or design it has omitted, but which is now brought before your view.

VIRGINIENSIS.

VERGENNES, (VER.) OCTOBER 18

On Monday last, a committee of the house of representatives, counted the votes for members of congress, it appeared by the report of the committee to the governor, that Lewis R. Morris, the worthy federal member, of the eastern district, was re-elected by a majority of upwards of three thousand votes, indeed only a few scattering votes appeared against him; the people know that he is firmly attached to his country's good, and in him all patriotic hearts are united.

The committee reported no election in the western district.

Votes for a federal representative for that district, as reported by the committee appointed by the general assembly, are as follow, viz.

For Matthew Lyon	3482
Samuel Williams	1544
Daniel Chipman	1370
Abel Spencer	268
Israel Smith	226
Scattering Votes	99
Total	6986

There were a number of votes lost, by reason of their not being accompanied with certificates according to law, the most of which were for Daniel Chipman.

Yesterday an elegant and spirited address to the president of the United States, highly approving his upright administration and indicative of the genuine sentiments of the legislature and freedom of Vermont, was reported in grand committee of both houses. This address so highly honorable to this state, shall be published when obtained from lawful authority.

It is reported that the office-building of Mr. John Cook, of Poultry, was much damaged by a mob of villians on the 13th inst.

N. B. Mr. Crook was a candid, but prompt witness against Matthew Lyon on the state trial before the circuit court.

Thursday, the twenty ninth day of November next, is appointed to be observed as a day of public thanksgiving throughout the state of Connecticut.

NEW-YORK, OCTOBER 20.

This day arrived the brig Nancy, captain O'Brien, in 36 days from Cork: By captain O'Brien we are informed that the French had made another attempt to invade Ireland, and had landed a number of men in the North; but hearing the fate of their countrymen they re-embarked. Their number was supposed to have been between 1000 and 1500.

OCTOBER 21.

Yesterday arrived the brig Nancy, captain O'Brien, in 36 days from Liverpool, via Cork, by whom we have received Cork papers to the 2nd September, eight days later than have yet been received. By these papers we have a confirmation of the unsuccessful search of Nelson after Buonaparte, and his fortunate debarkation on the shores of Egypt. So far his project has met with full success. What its termination will be is still wrapped up in the womb of futurity.

That his ultimate object is the destruction of the British power in the East Indies is evident and by no means impracticable. However, he is said already to have met with a severe check, and tho' to this report we attach but little credit, he still has in the climate, and other obvious circumstances, obstacles the most discouraging and formidable to encounter.

There was a report in town yesterday, that marquis Cornwallis was defeated by the insurgents—we have received all the latest papers, and see nothing to countenance this rumor.

LATEST FOREIGN NEWS

By the brig Nancy, Captain O'Brien, 36 days from Liverpool, via Cork.

LONDON, SEPTEMBER 15.

A Hamburg mail arrived this day, and brings accounts that have excited no little degree of interest in the city. It is confirmed that Buonaparte did not reach Alexandria till some days after admiral Nelson had left it. The landing of the French has been considered by the Porte as an open violation of the peace subsisting between the two powers, and measures have been in consequence adopted by the latter for maintaining its own dignity. Russia joins with the Porte on the present occasion, and the letters from Vienna state, that all the French property in Turkey has been confiscated.

The most important intelligence is contained in a letter from Berlin, of the 4th instant, which states that accounts had reached Constantinople of a battle having taken place near Cairo, between a Turkish force and the French troops under general Buonaparte, in which the latter was defeated with considerable loss—some accounts say, 8000 killed and 2000 made prisoners.

This intelligence, if true, is of the greatest importance to Britain; for there can be little doubt, if the French should succeed, with the loss of even half of the army, in reaching India by the route they have taken, that our possessions in that quarter would be much endangered.

The accounts that have reached us of this event do not enable us to state the particulars, to appreciate the degree of credit to which it may be entitled. It is plain, however, that if the passage of the Isthmus was undertaken without the consent of the Turks, they had it in their power to throw innumerable obstacles in the way of their progress in such a country.

The following is a letter upon this subject, received by Mr. Freeling at the post-office, from Mr. Harward, the agent for the packet, at Cuxhaven:

"Cuxhaven, September 9.

"I have the satisfaction to inform you, from the most authentic information, that the army under general Buonaparte, has been attacked by an immense body of Arabs, who have killed 8000 men and taken 2000 prisoners. I have not the good fortune to be able to give further particulars of this important event, but hope that the truth of the whole will amply compensate for it."

"To Mr. Freeling, Post-Office."

Mr. Freeling sent a copy of the above to Lloyd's coffee-house, accompanied with the following note:

"September 15, 1798.

"Mr. Freeling's compliments to Messrs. Bennet and Co. sends them an extract of a letter received this morning by the Hamburg mail, from the agent of the packet, at Cuxhaven, which, with every wish for its confirmation, he cannot pledge himself for the truth of."

This mail brings several interesting articles which we subjoin:

MILAN, AUGUST 21.

Letters from Genoa say, that disputes have arisen between the directory. French troops are soon expected to arrive, which will be at the disposal of the Ligurian directory.

Within these few days there has been a report that the legislative body will remove its sittings to Savona, to withdraw itself from the restraint of the military force. In short, there is every appearance of an 18th Fructidor taking place shortly at Genoa.

AUGUST 28.

It is confirmed that the English fleet, after having taken in water and fresh provisions at Syracuse, in the beginning of the month, sailed again in quest of the French fleet. The whole of the English fleet was not permitted to enter the harbour, but remained in the road. It has been joined by four English ships of the line, from Cadiz, and the Portuguese squadron, so that it now consists of 22 ships of the line.

On the departure of Buonaparte from Malta, 46 French knights of the order, mostly naval officers, embarked with him

The pope, who is sick, is frequently visited by the English and Russian envoys. His secretary has established a spiritual office in the Carthusian convent, in which briefs, dispensations and indulgencies are made out and granted, at a cheaper rate than they were formerly at Rome.

BASLE, AUGUST 29.

The French troops were in full march for the Grisons, and had advanced as far as Uzaacht; but it is now understood that it has been agreed upon between the Austrian and French generals, that neither side shall march troops into the country, but leave it to frame its own internal regulations.

VIENNA, AUGUST 29.

Last Saturday the Russian field marshal prince Repnin, had an audience of his Imperial majesty, and immediately afterwards a conferrence with the minister, baron Trugut. Since his arrival it has been confidently reported that Russian auxiliaries are already arrived on the river Bog, and only wait for orders to advance.

We have received a confirmation of Buonaparte having landed at Alexandria, both from Smyrna and Constantinople.— The porte, in conjunction with Russia, is making the most active preparations to oppose the French with effect; and their landing in Egypt is considered as an open violation of the peace existing between the two nations. It is said, that all French property within the Turkish empire has been confiscated. The French houses at Smyrna and Constantinople wait the result with no little anxiety.

LONDON, SEPTEMBER 1.

SEA FIGHT.

Copy of a letter from capt Butterfield, of his majesty's sloop Hazard of 16 guns, dated Cork harbor, 26th August, 1798, to vice admiral Kingsmill, &c. &c.

On the morning of the 7th inst. I fell in with and captured an American snow which had been taken by a French privateer on the 4th; and, in consequence of the information given by the American master, went in pursuit in the enemy. On the 12th I fell in with a French privateer mounting 24 guns, which I chased during two days; when we got nearly within gun shot of her, I had the mortification to see her guns thrown overboard, by which means she started from us, and gained so considerably, that finding it impossible to come up with her, and seeing another suspicious ship to windward, being then in lat. 46 deg. 12m. long. 18 deg. 23 min. I altered my course and gave chase, and at four P. M. being within gun shot, she hauled up her courses, hoisted French colors, and fired a shot.—An action immediately commenced between us, which lasted an hour and fifty minutes, when she struck, and proved to be Le Neptune, national armed ship, manned with 52 seamen, and 270 troops on board from the isle of France bound to Bourdeaux, pierced for 20 guns, mounting 10, all of which she fought on the same side; during the action she attempted several times to board us; the soldiers in her kept up a very heavy fire of musquetry, and a privateer, with French colors flying, was in sight to leeward the whole time. The enemy had between twenty and thirty men killed and wounded; and fortunately only wounded six on board of us.

The Hazard is not materially injured, having only a few shot in her hull and rigging.

Alexandria, November 6.

GEORGE WASHINGTON, Esq. Lieutenant-General and Commander in Chief of the Armies of the United States, passed through this town yesterday, on his way to the northward. He was received at the Turnpike by the company of Alexandria Blues, under the command of Captain HENRY PIERCY, and saluted as his carriage passed. The two troops of Cavalry, under the command of JOHN FITZGERALD, Esq. also came out to meet the veteran, and escorted him in.—General Washington remained but a short time in town; the Blues, however, had an opportunity of marching in, and evincing their respect and attachment, by a discharge of 16 rounds, which they went through with promptitude and exactness. Previous to the General's departure, he sent a message to the Captain, by his Secretary, thanking the officers and privates of the company for their attention, and complimenting them on their military appearance and conduct. He was escorted to George town by the Cavalry.

It must give pleasure to every person whose breast enshrines an American heart, to know that ROBERT G. HARPER, Esq. is re-elected a member of Congress for the district of Ninety-Six, in South Carolina.

The Aurora has made its appearance again to-day, replenished with venom and French philosophy. We understand it is under the same junto. Among the most precious deposits in its musty archives, and which it gives as an article of excellent news after its slumber, is a funeral fete, celebrated by the French jacobin society, stiled the society of Brutus, at Rome, in honor of the martyrs of liberty. But what particularly engages our attention is, that among the names of atheists and deists, they have dared to class those of WARREN and MONTGOMERY, that on a SUNDAY afternoon there wes a performance at the theatre; and that the tragedy of VIRGINIA was shortly to be acted!

(B. F. G.)

The plague, it is said, rages at Constantinople, with great violence and mortality.

The deaths at Philadelphia on Thursday were 20. No new cases.

The citizens, perhaps too precipitately, are returning in crowds.

The deaths at New-York on Tuesday were 8—6 of the fever.

Captain O'Brien, from Liverpool, last from Cork, is the bearer of but little news, having brought but one paper. Of the landing of Buonaparte in Egypt, there can be little doubt; and it appears that he has been defeated with prodigious loss. Should it be true that he has lost 10,000 men, as the accounts state, his march to the East-Indies, if that be his object, will be greatly impeded, if not totally frustrated. And it is by no means improbable that such a dreadful slaughter was followed by a general rout of Buonaparte's troops.—But as so many falsehoods have already been circulated concerning the progress and destination of this powerful army, we are only authorized to repeat the various and contradictory accounts that reach us thro' different channels. We shall seize with avidity every thing that can throw light on a subject which may be the forerunner of important events, and on which the public mind is fixed with eagerness.

[Com. Advert.]

Extract of a letter from Jeremie, to a gentleman in New-York.

"The whole island is, at present, in a miserable condition, being wholly under black government, and provisions every scarce and excessive dear—the British have evacuated Jeremie, and the French have possession of it, and it is in a starving condition. A small fowl will fetch 4 dollars, an egg 25 cents, and every thing else in proportion."

"While it was the object of France (says a northern paper) to remedy the abuses of its ancient government, and to relieve the people of oppressive and arbitary exactions, we even felt interested in her success, and saw with pleasure the progress of her arms. But when these noble objects and elevated views of France were buried in the promiscuous murders of the innocent—in the proscriptions of the best of citizens—in the confiscations of their property—in the slavery and degredation of neighboring independent States, and more particularly in the attempt to reduce us to the same humiliating spectacle—it then became criminal in us to advocate her cause, or to be silent under the lashes of vindictive measures. The wanton destruction of our property—the constant violation of the almost immutable law of nations, and the final rejection of our ministers, have cancelled all the moral, political and stipulated duties of America towards its ancient ally, and imposed a new code of obligations on its citizens,"

FROM IRELAND.

DUBLIN, SEPTEMBER 17.

The brother of Mr. Theobald Wolfe Tone who was apprehended in Edenderry, as mentioned in this paper, was bro't to the castle yesterday by lord viscount Maxwell, through whose vigilance and activity he was taken. He underwent an examination, and is to be tried in a few days by a court martial. This unfortunate man has been bred a broadcloth weaver, and was the inventor of the famous spring shuttle.

We have heard the conduct of the French very much applauded by a certain description of persons; and prints, at this and the other side of the water, have represented them as having paid in cash, for every necessary with which they were supplied. The following requisition will, however, shew what kind of payment they made, and we fancy that even amongst their warmest advocates, there could be found very few that, provided they had any thing to lose, would be much pleased with such a circulating medium.

Castlebar, 3d September, 1798.

Renon commissioner of ordnance for the French army, to the magistrates of Castlebar, &c.

The commune of Castlebar are hereby required, on pain of military execution, to have brought to morrow evening, at seven o'clock, to the commissioner or governor of the town, the following articles, for the use of the French forces:

- 50 good oxen,
- 40 fat sheep,
- 200 bottles of wine, for the use of wounded officers,
- 100 ditto for the soldiers,
- 3000 bottles of whiskey and brandy,
- 60 boxes of candles,
- 30 loads of hay,
- 30 barrels of oats,
- 40 bags of flour the best,
- The largest quantity of coffee that can be furnished,
- 1000 pounds of sugar,
- 360 pounds of butter,
- 30 flitches of bacon,
- 80 dozen of eggs,
- 20 dozen of turkeys, pullets, geese, &c.
- 90 yards of the finest blue cloth, and what taylors can be found to make it into dresses for the officers.

Also what green cloth, of every description that can be collected, for the purpose of presenting to the brave and united natives, who shall join the standard of France.

This requisition likewise included various other articles of wearing apparel, such as shoes, boots, linen, &c.

We trust, that this little sample of liberty and equality, will sufficiently shew the advantages of French alliance and fraternity. Nor was this all—they demanded of the little towns of Newport and Westport, one thousand guineas each, on pain of giving them up to pillage. At this rate of paying themselves, the French must find it no unprofitable trade to deal in revolution, where they bring it to a rich market.

Added to the above very modest and fraternal requisition, we have been favored with the names of the municipality of Castlebar, nominated by the French general.

Citizen C. Baynes, Mayor,
Municipal officers—Citizens.
Michael Sheridan,
John Huston,
Boetius Egan, P. P.
James Hancock,
Redmond Lyons,
Andrew Edmonston,
James Gibbons,
James Clarke, and John Burke.

SEPTEMBER 18.

We hear it is the intention to keep a regular force in this city of 6000 men—in consequence of which, there will not be a necessity for the yeomanry corps doing permanent duty.

The volunteers of Ireland of a former period, stand justly high in the annals of their country, and would no doubt have defended their native land to the last drop of their blood. They have not, however, the arduous opportunity of evincing their zeal in real action, as their successors the yeomanry have had, and thus sealed with their blood their loyalty to the best of kings, and unshaken attachment to the best of constitutions.

Sunday in the afternoon, the French general Humbert, together with the officers of his suite, left the mail coach hotel, Dawson-street, in coaches, and proceeded attended by their domestics, in the Royal George stage caravan, to the Pigeon house, in order to embark for England; they were escorted by a party of the military. In the evening, the remainder of the French prisoners having been conducted along the line of the Grand Canal, were also embarked on board the transports preparing for their reception at Poolbeg. On this occasion a multitude of spectators were assembled on the banks of the canal.
